Dear Friends,

Please take a minute to view the following video:

The Library of Congress, the research arm of Congress and the world’s largest library, is coming to Nebraska. Its traveling exhibit, “Gateway to Knowledge,” will be at Midland University in Fremont this Friday and Saturday. The exhibit will feature representations of the rough draft of the Declaration of Independence, the 1455 Gutenberg Bible; the 1507 Waldseemüller Map (the first document to use the word "America"); the original 1962 drawings for the comic book that introduced Spiderman to the world; and Walt Whitman's poem "Leaves of Grass."

Free and open to the public, the "Gateway to Knowledge" includes programming especially for teachers and students and provides relevant and engaging learning experiences for lifelong learners. I hope you can make it!

What: The Library of Congress "Gateway to Knowledge" Traveling Exhibition
When: Friday, January 14 and Saturday, January 15, 2011: 10 am to 6 pm
Where: Midland University Campus
900 North Clarkson, Fremont, NE