Washington, DC - Congressman Jeff Fortenberry made the following statement regarding the legacy and service of former Lincoln Mayor Helen Boosalis, who died Monday at the age of 89.

“Although I entered politics after Mayor Boosalis, she always impressed me as a person of great enthusiasm and love of our community. An advocate of strong neighborhoods and community beautification, her years of public service have left an important legacy to be enjoyed by generations to come. I extend my condolences to her family during this difficult time.”
